

Kristina Ojaperv (Costume Designer) [she/her] is an Estonian theatre artist in Southern Ontario. After receiving her BA in Dramatic Arts at Brock University, she has been part of many Niagara theatre companies' including Suitcase in Point, Essential Collective Theatre productions and projects on stage and off stage. Lately she has also been slowly but surely joining in on the Hamilton theatre and arts scene, and can't wait to explore more projects and ideas. Her main interests are in performance, directing, and costume and small props creations. Her latest projects would include directing a reading of Ingrid's Dream by Evie Jones at Niagara Artists Centre, and assisting with props and costume for Tottering Biped Theatre's Hamilton Fringe Festival production Bulfinch's Mythology. If not working on an art project she can be found teaching at Brock University, supporting people with intellectual disabilities, or obsessing about dogs and coffee. Kristina is very excited and grateful to be part of Midsummer Nights: A Dream team!
